

Jackie talks to the Tweeners
them seem really nice and tell her she should join their group.

Jackie is overjoyed to have a new group of friends and on the first day!

As time goes by she realizes that none of the tweens are really friends. They are just a group of people that are trying to be one of the cool kids. They just care about how she can help or hurt their chances with the cool kids.

Jackie feels just as lonely as when she first got here.
